All Serene
A Cheyenne Bible
Pyrenees vs. Africa
Ancient House
By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1928, by Star Co.

THE Federal Reserve reports cheerful business conditions, production of steel ingots increased 6 per cent. This country is in good shape, richest, most prosperous, most fortunate on earth.

If the Government will put some of its surplus to work on the Mississippi and the Boulder Dam development, all will be serene. Distributing water and fertilizer make farms productive, distributing cash makes nations prosperous.

The Rev. Rodolph Petter, devout missionary on the Northern Cheyenne reservation in Montana, is translating the Bible from Hebrew and Greek into the language of the Cheyenne Indians. Translating the New Testament must be difficult. Fighting Cheyennes did not talk the language of Christianity.

The reverend translator can sympathize with old Maimonides, who translated the Greek philosophers into Hebrew. He had to invent Hebrew words to express abstract Greek ideas that did not exist in the Hebrew language. Because he did that, the great synagogue in Spain excommunicated him.

That did not worry the justly Rev. "Rambam." He had a good job as physician to the ruler of Egypt, and lived safely with that wise and tolerant Mohammedan.

Tonight, in California, with 40,000 people that might be better employed, looking on, the powerful Basque, Uzcudun, from the Pyrenees, will fight the huge negro prize fighter, Godfrey. The Basque weighs 195 pounds, the negro 235 pounds.

To this Uzcudun, member of a strange race of origin unknown, all men look alike. Our high-spirited white American fighters, whose ring time is worth $500 a second, are more cautious.

It would take a steel cable to drag one of those priceless gentlemen into the ring with a negro even smaller than Godfrey, unless it were certain that he had been paid to "lie down," that he couldn't fight, or that disease had rendered him powerless.

It may be repeated that a small-sized gorilla could take Uzcudun, Godfrey, Dempsey and Tunney at their best, all four together, and pick them to pieces at leisure.

Pope Pius, in a ceremony honoring the memory of the venerable Elisabetta Mora, refers to the immodesty in dress of some modern women as "insults to the eyes of God and cause for temptation or disgust in the eyes of the world."

That is no exaggeration. It took women a million years to learn to dress modestly. They overdid it with their veils, hoop skirts, bustles, etc. Now they are rapidly going the other way. A strange, daring sex.

The late Albert Brisbane, more than 80 years ago, suggested that large apartment houses with central heating plants and water automatically distributed should be built as an improvement on "the isolated household." Some, old-fashioned, that knew little and did not mind seeing their wives carry water from the pump, said, "Americans will never live herded together."

Now Dr. Albert E. Douglass of the University of Arizona, exploring the Pueblo Bonito in New Mexico, finds an early American house about a thousand years old that housed 2000 early Americans.

Dr. Douglass can tell by rings in trees that have grown up since its abandonment how old the apartment is.

BANK HOLDUP CAR FOUND IN SO. END

HUNT CLUE TO $10,000 IN AUTO

A blue Hudson brougham, said by the police to have been used in the $10,000 holdup of a messenger and guard of the Fish Pier branch of the Federal National Bank yesterday, was found today in Genesee st., South End.

The machine, which records show was stolen last July, and which bore plates also said to have been stolen was reported by Patrolman William Brunelis of Dedham st. station, who noticed it was parked without lights.

With one tire flat, the car was taken to the East Dedham st. station where Inspectors Donovan and Mullin looked it over for fingerprints. It was found to have been stolen July 29, 1927, in the Back Bay, from William Skorski of Gore st., Cambridge. At that time the

Man Old at 72? No, Says "Young" Mr. Mellon at 73

Washington, Feb. 28—A man is not so old at 72.

One of the administration's "young men"—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who next month will celebrate his 73rd birthday, made this remark today. He was commenting on the fact that the Senate is holding up confirmation of Representative Greene (R.) Iowa, as a member of the court of claims because he is two years over the 70-year retirement age for judges

"Seventy-two is not very old," Mellon said.

$1,000,000 EDUCATION INQUIRY FUND PLANNED

Plans for a permanent fund of $1,000,000 for educational research in the field of public school administration were laid before the department of superintendence of the National Education Association today.

The plans contained in the report of the committee on financing educational research, which was read before delegates assembled in the third general session of the conference in Mechanics Building, Randall J. Condon, superintendent of Cincinnati schools, made the report.

The fund when created would be turned over to the trustees of the parent association for investment and the annual income, approximating $40,000, would be used by the department of superintendence for research work in the public schools.

Under the plan no separate research department would be created because commissions and committees supported by the N. E. A. executive committee would carry on the work, co-operating with the research department of the parent body.

No large gifts would be sought under the committee recommendations; rather, the fund would be the accumulation of small gifts solicited by the nearly 4000 school superintendents who are members of the department.

The committee plan will be placed before the department and if approved the executive committee will

BRUMBY ACQUITTED BY S4 NAVY COURT REPORT

Washington, Feb. 28 (INS)—Rear-Admiral Frank H. Brumby, who was vigorously criticized in the first report of the naval board of inquiry on the S4 disaster, has been acquitted by the supplementary investigation, ordered last week by Secretary Wilbur.

The second report of the naval court probably will be published in a week ten days.

Although the reconvened court confirmed its original conclusions that the commanders of both the S4 and the coast guard destroyer Paulding were equally responsible for the disaster, the second report also endorses the statement of the Navy Bureau of Navigation that the "major presumptive responsibility" for the crash rested with the S4 because of the relatively higher visibility under the existing weather conditions.

Although a court martial had been recommended for Admiral Brumby because of his alleged failure to contribute forceful and intelligent leadership to the rescue efforts, the board elected to give him a direct exoneration, which it did by letter.

Brumby's defense of the charge was that he deemed it wise to leave the details of technique in the hands of his subordinates at all times and he points to the board's first conclusion that "everything possible was done to save the lives aboard" as evidence that his policy was both wise and efficient.

Brumby's letter likely will be made public with the supplementary report of the inquiry board. There will be no courtmartial, Brumby's record will not be marred with the accusation of the first report, which was widely resented by the rank and file of the navy.

$750,000 LOVE 'STOLEN'

SCOFFS AT PETTING CHARGES

Mrs. Lillian Coogan and her husband, parents of Jackie Coogan, film star. Mrs. Coogan is fighting a $750,000 love suit filed by Mrs. Arthur Bernstein, who charges she stole affections of her husband. Mrs. Coogan calls the suit "silly."

JACK COOGAN'S MA SAYS LOVE SUIT SILLY CHARGE

Los Angeles, Feb. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Coogan, mother of Jackie Coogan, famous film juvenile, today began a fight against a $750,000 alienation of affections suit brought against her by Mrs. Cornbel Bernstein, wife of Arthur Bernstein, business manager of Jackie Coogan Picture Corporation.

The alienation suit, filed by Mrs. Bernstein along with a divorce action against her husband, charged the mother of the noted film youngster with being on too friendly terms with the manager of the film company. It was branded as "a silly fabrication absolutely without foundation" by Mrs. Coogan.

Attorneys for Mrs. Coogan announced that there would be no settlement or talk of settlement, as that the action would be fought out in court.

The suit was pictured by Mrs. Coogan's counsel as an attempt to embarrass her business manager and his employers on the eve of their departure to Europe.

Mrs. Bernstein's suit for a divorce named Mrs. Coogan. Mrs. Bernstein alleged that her husband and Mrs. Coogan had been friendly for a period of two years.

Besides the heavy damages asked of Mrs. Coogan, Mrs. Bernstein sought alimony of $1000 monthly and $15,000 for court and attorney fees. She said she and her husband owned community property valued at $250,000 to $300,000 and that the latter's income was $1000 a month.

The actual charges in the suit allege that Mrs. Coogan allowed her self to be embraced by Bernstein and that the latter was an all-night guest at her home.

BOOST GASOLINE PRICE TO 17-19 CENTS IN HUB

The price of gasoline in Boston was today advanced by the Standard Oil Company of New York and the Atlantic Refining Company.

The Standard announced an increase in the service station price to 19 cents a gallon from 17 and 18 cents. The Atlantic Refining Company announced an advance of 2 cents, making the service station price 17 cents a gallon. The Tide Water Oil Company announced a similar advance to 21 cents a gallon retail in Connecticut.

MORE ARRESTS NEAR IN VETERANS' BUREAU 'EXTORTIONS' INQUIRY

With more arrests momentarily expected, federal officials today made arrangements for convening a special Grand Jury to hear the stories of disabled World War veterans of Massachusetts who, it is alleged, have been defrauded by attaches of the Veterans' Bureau.

Independent investigation of the situation in this state by federal officials of the Veterans' Bureau is also likely.

Gen. William J. Grabo, local regional director of the bureau, conferred with his superiors in Washington today and the national inquiry is expected to result from its report of the exposures in this vicinity.

Full credit for the exposure of fixed extortion by a prominent Boston doctor, associated with the bureau, and by a clerk employed in the regional offices here, is given

DEATH CHAIR WIDOW PICKS JERRY'S COFFIN

The funeral of Jerry Goldman, executed for the murder of Edward C. Hoss, Cambridge bank messenger, will take place Thursday at 10 o'clock in St. Hedwig's Church, 6th st., Cambridge, it was announced today.

Solemn high mass will be celebrated by the Rev. Henry Zwyzen, and interment will be in St. Mihiel's Cemetery.

The body was turned over to John Broom, undertaker, of Cambridge, a former schoolmate of the dead youth, and will lie at the home of Michael Goldman, 7 Mullins ct., Cambridge, a brother of Jerry.

It was originally planned to have the funeral from the home of Mrs. Amelia Goldman, mother of Jerry, in Lynde st., West End, but because of her physical condition plans were changed. Mrs. Goldman collapsed several days before the execution, and for a week was under sedatives.

Early today Mrs. Dorothy Foss Goldman, the widow, accompanied by Abraham and Michael Goldman,

'DRYS' LAY PLANS FOR DEFEAT OF ANY 'WET'

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Studying for the support of conditions, dry leaders from all sections of the country assembled here today to lay plans for a showdown on the question with both the Republican and Democratic parties.

At a one-day conference, they proposed to map out a campaign for the insertion of clearcut prohibition planks in the two political platforms and for nomination of men for President and Vice-President known to be dry at heart.

The penalty for ignoring this demand, those in charge of the meeting let it be known, would be an appeal to friends to prohibition actively to oppose the non-compliant party's nominees at the polls in November.

Wet resistance refrained from opposition, but Hon. O. H. Mc[illegible] New York, representing the National Civic League, protested strongly against Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

NO "TARDY" MARKS

The research fund was but one of many important matters brought before the general session when prominent educators—setting an excellent example for any of their pupils who may be watching—assembled on the dot at 9 a. m. in Mechanics Hall. Not a single tardy mark was recorded.

A warning against the property tax system for supporting the public schools was sounded by Fletcher H. Swift, professor of education at the University of California.

The property tax was termed by the speaker a "national scourge"—one that will increase breadlines already existing.

In an address that was at considerable variance with that made yesterday by A. Lawrence Lowell, Harvard president, Professor Swift painted a gruesome picture of inadequate educational facilities in certain states, particularly in the south.

"One-fourth of the teachers in one state receive only $300 a year or less," he said. "Are we spending too much on the schools when the average number of children in some rural schools is 16, when such a school has one teacher and is conducted in an old store, with one book for four children?

"One country school superintendent I visited had spread out before him the material he was to distribute for the day. If you had been with me you would have asked, as I did, 'Why have you got such a wide variety of materials?'

"His answer was: 'Don't you understand? The larger collections are for those teachers who can read and write.'

IN "SUNNY SOUTH"

"In the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina there are only 25,000 children out of 200,000 who are attending school. These children are of pre-Revolutionary stock.

"In most states, school revenue is derived from a general property tax. This property tax is a national scourge, driving the farmer from his farm, the rancher from his ranch and the householder from his home.

"It was a wrong economic policy that undermined the yeomanry of ancient Rome. It is a wrong economic policy that is today undermining the yeomanry of America.

"More than 2,000,000 farmers have left their homes since 1922. There is an annual decline of from 400,000 to 500,000 in the farming population of America.

"Breadlines in Chicago and Boston grow longer and longer and will continue to grow unless we can keep people contented on the farm.

"The general property tax is strik-

45 Percent of Co-Eds Conventional by Test

Tested for personality traits, 45 per cent of the freshman girl students at Ohio State University proved to be of the conventional type, according to Esther Allen Gaw, dean of women at the university, who described the test today at a meeting of the university section of the N. E. A. at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Fifteen per cent. of the girls were apparently of they-going type, 28 per cent. proved to be either independent or maladjusted and 11 per cent. pessimistic and disinterested.

Dean Gaw stated that this classification was only tentative further investigation being necessary. She was primarily concerned with the description of the test known as the Ohio Personality Traits Aest and devised by Herbert A. Tocts.

Each student was given a list of 162 statements describing the possible habitual actions of a girl student. Each student was required to approve or disapprove of the action described in each statement.

The conventional type girls were those who approved of an excessive number of the good-habit items and disapproved of an excess of the bad-habit statements.

Examples of the good-habit items were as follows: Remembers and keeps all engagements; is willing to compliment another who appears to better advantage; can take opposite side in argument without being disagreeable; does not break dates with girl friend for man friend' wears neat but expensive clothing.

Bad-habit items included the following: Asks men to dance with her; reads movie sub-titles aloud; has tobacco on breath; tells family secrets to outsiders; bites her finger nails.

police of Division 15 pursued the stolen car over Prison Point bridge, firing several shots, one of which was believed to have taken effect on an occupant.

When found today the machine bore Massachusetts registration plates, which were issued to a Lowell man, from whom they are believed to have been stolen. Inspector Timothy Sheehan went to Lowell to question the man regarding the plates. Police say the car was not registered this year.

If fingerprints are found on the car they will be checked with any which may be found on the automatic pistol knocked from the hand of one of the holdup men by James Barry of 182 E st., South Boston, the bank messenger who was robbed.

The police were elated by the discovery of the car, and believe that now they will be able to run down the robbers.

ing $100 from Dr. Julius Grossman of Roxbury, and $400 from Cornelius Delaney of Somerville. Williams is charged with extorting $100 from Rex C. Kelley of Amesbury and $350 from David Templeton of Cohasset.

Both men have pleaded not guilty before U. S. Commissioner Jenney and are under heavy bail, $1,500 in the case of Dr. Green and $2,500 for Williams.

SEEK EVIDENCE.

While arrangements for the special Grand Jury sitting were being made by Assistant U. S. Attorney John V. Spalding, Captain Blake was today issuing an appeal to disabled veterans to come forward with their stories of fraudulent practices.

It was made clear by the local Veterans' Bureau chief that many veterans may have paid money to persons who promised to aid them in getting claims aproved and may hesitate to tell their stories in the fear that they did something wrong themselves.

While immunity cannot be promised, officials stated that in their belief many veterans who had good claims were led by certain persons to think their claims were not valid. Then the other parties would offer to get their claims approved provided the veterans split with them upon receiving compensation.

Intricate, for apparently, according to Captain Blake, the alleged extortioners varied their scheme to meet each individual case.

PLOT INDICATED

In some cases it is said, money was actually on its way from the government to a veteran when the veteran was approached and "held up" for a "split" by persons who appeared to be linked in a ring of fraud.

In these cases the veteran would be told that his claim had met with serious obstacles which could only be removed by accepting the aid offered him, and by promising to pay well for this aid.

Captain Blake, whose integrity is recognized and whose reputation is high among the rank and file of Massachusetts disabled veterans, was considerably chagrined at the exposures, but declared that there was nothing to do but conduct a complete and thorough public investigation and house-cleaning.

This can only be done with aid from the veterans themselves, and he urged them to tell their stories freely to the investigating authorities.

SCORE TO BE CALLED

Besides Capt. Blake and Hession, at least a score of Bay State veterans are expected to be called as witnesses before the federal grand jury.

Local bureau officials pointed out that this section is not unique in respect to the exposures, as the same alleged practices were uncovered in other sections. In some of the other cases, "shyster" lawyers were the instigators, it was said, and this led to a bureau regulation strictly limiting the scope of lawyers in presenting claims to the government.

WANTS TO GIVE AWAY $23,000, TELLS COURT

Declaring that she was unable to keep her husband alive and therefore did not want any of his money, Mrs. Clara Grace Twigg of Needham today told Judge Joseph E. McCoole in Norfolk Probate Court that she desires to give away an estate of $23,000.

Mrs. Twigg is the widow of John L. Twigg, former treasurer of the American Institute of Finance, who died October 2 last, bequeathing his entire estate to his wife. The woman appeared in court on petition of the selectmen of Needham that a conservator be appointed over her estate.

Asked by the court how she proposed to dispose of the money, Mrs. Twigg replied that she would give one-tenth to God to be used for the welfare of the animal kingdom, and divide the remainder among eight relatives.

The woman, whose gray hair was bobbed, and who wore knickerbocker skirts and rolled stockings, told Judge McCole she wanted to start all over again and make her own living.

The court made the suggestion that Mrs. Twigg might suffer and be forced to call on her friends for aid.

"No," she replied firmly, "I know I wouldn't."

Asked how she would make her living, the widow said there was nothing she could not do, and con-

NO-FUEL MOTOR TURNED DOWN BY SCIENTISTS

Washington, Feb. 28 (INS)—Terrestrial magnetism may be harnessed to create energy that will turn wheels and make telegraph instruments tick, a group of government scientists at the Bureau of Standards agreed today, but they turned thumbs down on the mysterious and much-discussed "fuelless motor" invented by Lester J. Hendershot of Pittsburgh.

That such a motor or generator can be used to drive airplanes was regarded as extremely doubtful by Dr. Paul F. Heyl, inventor of the earth inductor compass that guided Lindbergh to France, and Dr. H. B. Hubbard, who has visualized such apparent impossibilities as a camera which focuses automatically as does the human eye, and interplanetary transportation.

"You can't get something for nothing," declared Dr. Heyl, whose inductor compass operates on a principle somewhat similar to that of the Hendershot generator.

"To operate an airplane requires at least 400 horsepower. But to say that the comparatively weak magnetic field of the earth, which turns the compass needle, will develop in a generator sufficient energy to drive an airplane motor, is too much, and proof of the airplane in flight must be furnished before the invention is taken seriously."

"It works," This was the reply of Chester J. Hendershot to statements that scientists doubted the ability of his fuelless motor to draw power from the earth's magnetic forces sufficient to turn an airplane motor.

Hendershot said he did not care to reveal the secret of his motor, and would not do so to "satisfy the curiosity" of doubters.

POSSE COMBS WOODS FOR FIRE SLAYER

Somerville, N. J., Feb. 28 (INS)—A hundred policemen and civilians today plunged into the dense woods back of the Richard Lindabury estate on Bernardsville road in pursuit of a man seen to enter the thickets and known to answer the description of the slayer of Margaret Brown.

The man was seen to enter the woods by Elmer Trimmer, superintendent of the Lindabury estate. He carried a bundle of newspapers and looked about him in a furtive, hunted manner. The same man was seen to enter the woods yesterday morning. Trimmer said, but he made no report to the police at the time.

While the police of Bernardsville and Somerville joined forces in the hunt and civilians, armed with all manner of weapons, augmented their forces, a troop of state police under command of Capt. J. J. Lenz was rushing to the scene from the Morristown barracks.

WOMEN DEMAND EQUAL CHANCE IN POLITICS

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam and Mrs. W. Morton Grinnell today headed a group of 15 women before the legislative committee on election laws, urging that women be given an equal opportunity with men in representation on the committees of the two major parties.

They favored the recommendation of the special committee on election laws calling for the election of two members from each of the 40 senatorial districts in the presidential primary.

Charles H. Moore, chairman of the democratic state committee, and Frank H. Hall, former chairman of the Republican state committee, opposed the measure, saying that the present law is working well.

Hall explained that now a single member is elected from each of the districts, who in turn selects an alternate of the opposite sex.

"The bill seeks to have two elected from each district," he pointed out. "It sounds good to Boston, but it wouldn't work out. It would mean about six to two in favor of the men."

The women members asserted that what they want is not a 50-50 proposition, but an equal opportunity.

SCRATCH FROM KNIFE OF MANICURE KILLS BROKER

Chicago, Feb. 28 (INS)—A scratch of an index finger made by a manicurist's knife was blamed today for the death of Solomon J. Gellman. Coldness, stricken shortly after having the knife manicured to be fresh on February 2, died on February 20 at a local hospital. The infection, according to his physician, started in the scratched finger. A coroner's investigation has been ordered.

DOWN AND OUT, HE SET FORTH TO ROB

By PAUL WHELTON

With a little strain toward vindication, the usually genial air of "Mike" Crowley, the police superintendent and hunter of criminals the world over, lent in an accusing atmosphere that may be strong, for no one can say of the super that he is without understanding.

But this is a tale of a mean night in a mean street, when all the meanness of an automobile linked all the meanness of a manner, albeit the meanness of the man was that engendered through desperation.

It lurked but a brief interval between the death of one day and the birth of another. Through the streets the chill wind whistled stirring the powder dust into revolving eddies and biting through the coats of those few persons abroad beyond their shelters.

At the mouth of a cave, a subway, angry mobs throats and heads with a rapid crash, endeavoring to make connection with the end of the engine shaft.

The starting motor is turned out; it will not function excepting that it be short-circuited, while a second individual holds down with his foot the starter button.

If in a direction car with only one man to get her going, there is no time to open the taps into which the crank fits, there is no time to oil in the eye at the starter and switch, nor to oil with the second

350,000 MINERS THREATEN NEW COAL STRIKE

Washington, Feb. 28 (INS)—A new strike of miners seems certain to be started by February 1, April 1 or April 30, if the United Mine Workers' officials refuse to grant the demands of the miners' convention.

After nearly a week's investigation by the house mines committee, which is trying to ascertain the causes of the coal industry's present depression, Chairman Connolly of Pennsylvania today announced he would ask the Washington police to organize a special force for the private Congressional committee.

The committee collected about 200 pages of testimony in its trips. It heard of a secret report, the substance of which relates chiefly to the operations of the United Mine Workers in the coal camps. A meeting was called for Tuesday. The report investigators probably will be submitted to the committee probably will get under way next week or in the early summer.

Legislative remedy must be found to relieve the present terrible condition of the coal industry, it was declared by members of the committee, including the railroads, and all other interests of economic life.

No progress has been reported, but a bill calling for Federal supervision of the coal industry will be introduced in one or two of the committee members. Wheeler, Democrat, of Montana, already has introduced a bill to nationalize the mines.

The greatest fear of the industry, the committee believes, is overproduction and an overabundance of mines.

MAN HELD MAY SOLVE THEFTS IN WAKEFIELD

A police search of the home of Herbert G. Flake, 26, of Lowell rd., Winchester, who was arrested early today following an alleged attempt to break into a Main st., Archer shop in Wakefield, resulted in the seizure of burglar's tools and loot which may solve a series of breaks in Wakefield and surrounding towns.

Flake was captured by Patrolman Walter Peterson of the Wakefield police, following a report that a man was acting suspiciously in the vicinity of a harber shop owned by Jos. and Mrs. Paul Perrone.

Several articles found in Flake's possession, among them a jacket with a picture of Perrone's wife, were said by police to have been stolen from the Perrone home when it was entered a few weeks ago.

A deadline revolver, two automatic pistols, burglar's tools, a set of automobile number plates and a flashlight, with a lot and stock alleged to have been stolen in a recent Wilmington break, were found at Flake's home.

The police will question Flake in connection with the robbery of Dr. Thomas Catholis' residence in Wilmington a week ago and the daylight robbery of the Atlantic and Pacific store in Wakefield Centre.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 28 (INS)—The lower house of the legislature today was on record as favoring the all-American ship canal from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic.

Sues After Losing Legs in "Beauty" Operation

Chicago, Feb. 28 (INS)—A $200,000 damage suit has been filed by Sadie Holland, 30-year-old stenographer, against Dr. Henry J. Schirescu, plastic surgeon.

Miss Holland charges that both her legs had to be amputated above the knees as the result of an unsuccessful operation which was performed for the purpose of straightening them.

The "beautifying" operation was performed several weeks ago. Gangrene poisoning developed and the members were amputated.

cans with bad faith in failing to put through the Legislature a prohibition enforcement act. He declared if the Walsh power investigation resolution had been adopted by the Senate, Governor Smith would never be President. He charged Mr. Smith "does the bidding" of utilities corporations.

A committee will draft resolutions on what is to be demanded of Republican and Democratic political platforms, and it was planned also to designate a group to press the campaign and present the demands at the Kansas City and Houston conventions.

At Kansas City the group will have the active support of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who has declared he will carry the fight for the drastic dry law enforcement plank in the Republican platform.

Prohibition leaders in southeastern states will meet March 4 to 7 at St. Petersburg, Fla., to discuss what action should be taken by southern dry Democrats in the event Governor Smith or someone else regarded as wet, is nominated for President. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League.

While no arrangements have been made to have discussions include the question of a bolt from their party by dry Democrats if the Houston convention fails to nominate a dry for the Presidency, C. A. Upchurch, superintendent of the North Carolina Anti-Saloon League, predicted the question will be thoroughly explored.

chusetts executive, will be the chief witness at the legislative investigation.

His cannot be summoned by the committee, which is to be appointed today to probe the whole conduct of Fall's office, but he stated in New York that he will only be too willing to come on here and give all evidence in his power.

It was Monjar who charged that Reading was paid a $75,000 retainer by the Decatur Club after that club had been given a clean bill of health in this state by Reading's office.

The attorney-general is given an additional day of grace to resign before the impeachment proceedings actually begin, as the committee is not to be appointed today.

It is thought, however, that he has any intention of resigning, even though pressed to do so by friends, but will fight the case through to the finish.

GOVERNOR OF NEBRASKA CALLS ON GOV. FULLER

Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska, who is attending the N. E. A. convention, today paid his respects to Governor Fuller. Governor McMullen said Governor Fuller is well and favorably known throughout the country, but declined to say whether he will run for the presidency. The mid-west, he added, is going to insist on nominating a man with a broad viewpoint in relation to industry, particularly farming.

MRS. LINDBERGH GOES SHOPPING

It was a day of rest today for Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—that is, it was a day of rest from publicity if no so far as she could make it—and she devoted all her time to shopping and sitting beside the bed of a sick friend.

The Detroit school teacher who a year ago was an unknown, was in the escort of Commissioner of Education Param Dana or one of his lieutenants throughout the day.

Although perhaps The most famous woman in the world today, she walked through the streets of the downtown section without being recognized by a soul.

Her course was laid from the Statler Hotel, where she has her suite, through Park st. and into all the higher stores of the city.

Mrs. Lindbergh, as on yesterday, slipped out of the Statler unobserved, after breakfasting in her suite with Miss Maud Dawson, also a teacher in the Cass Technical high school, Detroit.

They each had for breakfast grapefruit, scrambled eggs and bacon, buttered toast, cereals, marmalade, doughnuts and coffee. Then Lindy's mother answered a number of letters received in her "fan mail" since arriving in Boston.

Ten minutes after Mrs. Lindbergh vanished from the hotel a call came to the Statler conveying information that Col. Hughes of the Arnold Bake, South Boston, wished to place an airing car at Mrs. Lindbergh's disposal during her stay in the city.

MAN IS TRAPPED AND HELD AS AUTO THIEF

A carefully-laid trap took John H. Long, who police claim to be an international auto thief, into Lynn court today where he was held in $5,000 for the grand jury.

Inspectors Voorhies and Rensen had the man. The capture centered around a signature on a register that the inspectors planted in a local garage.

According to the police Long, who carries five aliases including John Porter, Arthur Porter, Frank C. Phillips, John Phillips and Lee Sweeden, obtained stolen cars in Providence for ocean shipment to Portugal on Fabre line steamships. A stolen car, carrying the motor number of a car sold at Poughkeepsie two years ago, proved his undoing, according to the inspectors.

GUARD LEEDS HOME AFTER VISIT OF CZAR'S DAUGHTER

New York, Feb. 28 (AP)—Conflicting reports concerning the placing of a police guard over the Oyster Bay, L. I., estate of William R. Leeds were current today. Unconfirmed reports were that threats against the Leeds family had been received because Mrs. Leeds, the former Princess Xenia of Russia, had extended hospitality to Miss Anastasia Tchaikovsky, who claims to be a daughter of the late Czar of Russia. Servants at the Leeds home denied that Miss. Tchaikovsky was staying there.

SAVE BOY AT GREENFIELD FIRE; 8 FAMILIES FLEE

Springfield, Feb. 28—Eight families were driven to the street and one sick boy was rescued today when flames swept through the three-story wooden block at 10 Parker st., Indian Orchard. A general alarm was sounded. Six stores were on the ground floor of the block, and it is believed the blaze started from an electric-short circuit in one of them. Patrolman Albert La Garey seized Heyward Edward Lapchinski, who was ill in bed, and carried him to the street. Damage by the fire was estimated at $75,000.

'SUPERS' NAME AND APPLAUD BOYNTON

Inspired by the vigorous reply made by Frank D. Boynton, superintendent of schools of Ithaca, N. Y., to criticism of secondary schools voiced by President Lowell of Harvard, the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association today unanimously nominated Supt. Boynton as its next president.

The demonstration from the floor that followed Supt. Boynton's nomination was unprecedented and his election is assured. The delegates in the superintendence group of the association apparently wished to show where their sympathies lie and the nominee evidently showed as highly gratified at the honor.

SECONDED BY SMITH

Nomination of Boynton was seconded by Payson Smith, Massachusetts commissioner of education. Ed ward C. Broome, superintendent of schools of Philadelphia, was regarded as a popular choice, but Boynton's nomination was allowed to stand alone and later Broome declined nomination as first vice-president.

Other nominations were: First vice-president, Dr. J. M. Gwinn, superintendent of schools of San Francisco, second vice-president, Frank G. Pickell, Montclair, N. J., superintendent.

Executive committee: Paul C. Stetson, Dayton, O.; W. W. Bowler, Soquel, Ind.; David A. Ward, Wilmington, Del., and A. L. Chreklod, Denver.

In an interview, Superintendent Boynton referred to the attitude of President Lowell as one of "cardied intellectuality."

REPLIES TO LOWELL

"We should not dwell in that sphere, far from contact with the human family," he said. "We must not have too much selectivity and attempt to meet the requirements of a few intellectuals at the expense of the rank and file.

"My policy is that every child is entitled to some education. Even the handicapped must be helped. The producer counts rather than the intellectual dreamer. Many colleges are nothing but graves of sand, having intensified studies along lines never used by the graduates after they set out into life.

"I prefer the liberal education of all children, the general education that helps mankind. I prefer to take more light from the Cross rather than the Coliseum.

"Only 2,000,000 boys and girls go to high school. One-half of these do not finish. President Lowell was considering only one-half of 1 per cent of our boys and girls when he voiced his objections to the courses of studies given in secondary schools as being insufficient to prepare pupils properly for college."

Cuticura Soap and Ointment

Announce their Golden Anniversary

FOR 50 years the name Cuticura has stood for all that is best in Toilet Preparations for cleansing, purifying and beautifying the Skin, Scalp and Hair.

First manufactured and distributed in the United States, they are now known and used throughout the world, ever-growing demand necessitating the establishment of additional laboratories for their manufacture in Canada, England and Australia.

Originated in 1878, the Cuticura Preparations have been able, through their wonderfully effective super-creamy emollient qualities, to meet the constantly changing demands of successive generations, and are today held in highest esteem for all the needs of the daintiest of modern toilets.

The Cuticura Preparations consist of:

Cuticura Soap Cuticura Ointment
Cuticura Talcum Cuticura Shaving Stick

Each is a highly developed product, with the Medicinal, soothing and healing properties of Cuticura so delicately and delightfully blended that they are unique in Toilet Requisites.

LOS ANGELES IS ON WAY BACK FROM PANAMA

France Field, Canal zone, Feb. 28 (AP)—The United States dirigible Los Angeles, which arrived here last night from the United States, took off today for Guacanayabo Bay, Cuba, where the U. S. S. Patoka is awaiting her.

The dirigible took off from the improvised "stub" mast here a few minutes after 10 o'clock.

The dirigible's flight from Lakehurst, N. J., to Panama was the longest the big airship has made since coming from Germany.

Leaving Lakehurst at 8:18 a. m. Sunday, the dirigible flew over New York and then headed for Panama and moored at France Field at 10:40 p. m. last night, after flying 2265 miles in 49 hours.

CROWD GREETS AIRCRAFT

A tropical moon offered dim visibility as the Los Angeles approached Colon over the Caribbean Sea. The craft circled the city twice before coming down.

A crowd of nearly 3000 that gathered at the field watched with eagerness every movement of the first aircraft to make a non-stop flight between the United States and the Panama. Only once has the Los Angeles made a longer journey and that was when she was flown to the United States from Germany.

The dirigible had no trouble in landing in the moaning northerly trade wind. A crew of 600 sailors was present to assist in mooring the ship to the 60-foot temporary mast, which was constructed in the United States under supervision of Lieut. Comdr. E. C. Rosenthal.

THROUGH RAIN AND SLEET

When the Los Angeles was about 30 feet from the ground mooring lines were tossed overboard and the ship dragged to within a few feet of the earth. It was then dragged for 50 yards to the mast and lashed fast.

Lieut.-Comdr. Rosenthal said that the entire flight was made with great ease and rough weather encountered only once, although the craft passed through every kind of weather, including snow, sleet, rains and wind.

WARM WAVE ON WAY TO N. E.

While western New York and New England shivered today in temperatures well below the freezing mark, a moderate warm wave developed in Minnesota, destined, according to the weather man, to reach these parts within 12 hours.

Accompanying the welcome visitor, however, were indications of snow flurries and showers, but Dopes are officially held out that these will pass northward as the rise in temperature advances to the Atlantic seaboard.

Northfield Vt., with a temperature of zero set-tern today was the coldest spot in New England, while Boston commuters faced a mercury mark of 19 above as they hurried to office and workshop.

100 N. E. MANUFACTURERS' REPRESENTATIVES DINE

The regular weekly luncheon of the New England Association of Manufacturers' Representatives was held at the Chamber of Commerce Building. About 100 members and their guests were present.

The principal speaker was Leon Errol, musical comedy star and comedian, who gave a most interesting talk on his experiences in various countries of the world.

At the head table, in addition to Mr. Errol, were George H. Burnett of the Joseph Burnett Company, president of the organization; Harry S. Young of the Campbell Sales Company, first vice president; J. Mc-Cormick of the Shredded Wheat Sales Company, Inc., treasurer, and Ted Searle of the Sanford Baking Powder, secretary of the organization.

23 AIRCRAFT IN HUNT FOR LOST NAVAL FLIERS

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Twenty-three airplanes and two army blimps were ordered out today to search the lower Chesapeake Bay area for the three aviators of the carrier Lexington who have been missing since they took off from Norfolk naval air station for Annapolis yesterday morning.

The Mg blimps were ordered out by Maj.-Gen. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps, who requested the commanding officer at Langley Field, Va., to get the augmented search under way immediately.

The fliers, Comdr. T. G. Ellyson, the Navy's first air pilot; Lieut.-Comdr. Hugo Schmidt and Lieut.-Comdr. Rosendahn Rannebunsen, mysteriously disappeared after they left the Norfolk station on a flight intended to bring Ellyson to the bedside of his 12-year-old daughter, who is ill.

The searching planes were ordered to go as far north as Annapolis, the destination of the missing aircraft. Four planes are to search the central Chesapeake Bay and four others the eastern shore, and others were ordered to investigate seperate areas extending inland from the western shore.

In addition other planes are to search the bay and lighthouse areas. If the search is unproductive, the planes will scan the Atlantic coast the region in which the missing craft might have been forced down.

STABS PRIEST IN ROME HOME

Rome, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Rev. Fr. Tacchi-Venturi, Jesuit priest, who acted as chief negotiator between the Vatican and the Italian government to bring about a settlement of the Roman question, is reported to have been stabbed in the neck by an unknown man. His wound is not considered serious.

The attack on Fr. Tacchi-Venturi took place yesterday, but the affair was suppressed by the news.

The man presented himself at the priest's house, near the Church of Gesu, the great Jesuit shrine. He said he wanted to talk to the father, and suddenly drew a sharp, pointed knife and stabbed him in the neck. The assailant fled, but police report they have him in custody.

CITY MISSION WORKERS IN SESSION AT ST. PAUL'S

The annual meeting of the Episcopal City Mission and the annual theconry of Boston was held at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul on Tremont st. today. Reports were presented by Archdeacon Dennen and Phillips Kenchum, treasurer, and an address was given by Rev. George L. Paine on "Unclaimed Missionary Opportunities in the City of Boston."

Bishop Babcock presided and addresses on City Mission work were given by the field workers in the field. Luncheon was served. The City Mission is best known for its work in behalf of women. It being established that 75,000 per year are entertained in the two clubhouses in East Boston and Charlestown. Larger equipment and more adequate housing are required and additional funds are being sought through contributions.

CHAUFFEUR, WILLED $650,000, TO STICK TO JOB

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 28 (AP)—Sole legatee and executor of an estate valued at $650,000, Daniel F. Clemens, 40-year-old chauffeur, sees no reason why he should change his line of residence or mode of living.

Curren inherited the fortune from Miss Emma C. Bladdy, his former employer. She had no close relatives and it is believed the testatrix left the unconditional. Her fortune grew from a $50 investment in her mother 50 years ago in Florida at a saving of exactly one-half. No mail, phone or C. O. D. orders.

how to banish "YELLOW MASK"

If your teeth have that Yellowish Look Here's What to do. White, Glistening Ivory Guaranteed!

THIS corrective is approved by dental science. Everywhere dentists are telling their patients to use it. As a safe, simple and pleasant way to banish the most stubborn and ugliest blight on teeth beauty—"Yellow Mask," or yellowish teeth.

With screen and stage stars this approved tooth whitener is a vital requisite in the beauty-making ensemble. More than a million women and men who have abandoned clouded dentifrices for it will tell you that never before have they possessed such white tooth beauty.

We offer you this new, scientific way to loveliness under the most liberal guarantee. So your can discard immediately your present dentifrice and accept this means, or method, if this corrective fails after twenty days' usage to give your teeth a lustrous whiteness, return the unused part of the tube to your druggist and receive your money back.

This new way is ORPHOS TOOTH PASTE. It works its white magic through its basic content—Tri-Calcium Phosphate. This substance of technical name is a white, shiny powder that the foremost dentists use for cleaning and polishing white teeth. It can't harm the softest enamel. Only recently has science succeeded in fusing it into a tooth paste—that's why you have never been able to remove that hateful yellowish tinge.

Waste no time in trying this wonderful ORPHOS. In getting the beauty it imparts. Go to your druggist—and then after "YELLOW MASK"!

Eddie Reports on His School Teachers

By EDDIE MARTIN
Office Boy Extraordinary

It was about 11 o'clock when the city editor called me off my easy chair and sent me over to get a story on the N. E. A. teachers' meeting. He said, "Well, Eddie, you're a reporter now and your first story to cover will be on your old FRIENDS the school teachers." I didn't agree with him on the word FRIENDS but said nothing.

I grabbed my hat and coat and hoped on a car for Mechanics Building, the place where the convention and main meeting was being held. The place looked like a food fair, there were booths everywhere. After asking a few hundred people where the meeting was being held, some sweet looking girl edema I learned was a teacher directed me to the hall where it was being held. Well, after pushing my way through the crowd I landed in the schoolroom.

'TWAS PACKED

Well fellers, you should have seen the crowd that was there. The place was packed. There were teachers of every discription fat and thin, short and tall. I heard that the Gov. & Mayor was going to speak, so I tried to get a front seat which I saw was vacant. While trying to force my way down, I heard someone call me knowingly, what ever that means I turned around and how was another one of those old teachers or school mams as we called them yelling at me for stepping on her toes.

Well fellers a person couldn't have made you laugh any harder than her face did. She had long gray hair all rolled into one of those buns on the back of her head. A wrinkled face with a double chin to match and a pair of those old silver glasses. And O-Boy wasn't her eyes pressed. The minute I looked at her I thought I was back in school again and was ready to put my hand out for an other whack from her so called wooden the ruler. After being excused I moved down to the vacant seat.

HE CHANGED HIS MIND.

This is when I changed my mind about teachers. There was an old teacher about 60 speaking on the good of education and before she finished I started wishing I was back in school again. After I heard several of them speak I started to believe what one of my teachers used to tell me. She used to say I want you to understand that I am here for your own good and not mine.

After a bunch of speeches had been made, I pulled out my paper and pencil and wrote a story on them. We then heard some great music from some school cadets. After a few more short talks some gentleman walked out on the stage and announced the close of the meeting. This hand started to play again and I rushed for the nearest door and brought my story back to the office. I gave it to the City Editor and he read it, but said nothing, but it looks were killing I think I would be dead now.

VARIED STUDIES HOLD PUPILS IN BOSTON

"One reason for Boston's success in leading young people in the secondary schools is the variety of opportunity offered therein," said John C. Brodhead, assistant superintendent of Boston Public Schools, speaking before the vocational division of the department of superintendence today.

"One phase of this variety of opportunity is the vocational program and its success is due to many factors including, in the case of boys, the motor experiences of the kinder garten, and with paper, scissors, pencil, and rule in the primary grades; formal work with cardboard and bookbinding materials in grades 4 and 5; simple bench work in wood in grade 6; and prevocational or explanatory shopwork in grades 7 and 8.

"The Boston Trade School, operating on a seven-hour day, and with courses of one to four years in length, is offering instruction under the best academic and shop teachers obtainable. I na wide variety of the mechanical and building trades. Its graduates are readily absorbed in industry and 75 per cent of them are found in the trades prepared for.

"Cooperative industrial courses in printing, machine shop practice sheet metalry, auto mechanics, woodworking, and electricity are established in seven of our mixed, cosmopolitan high schools.

"With especially planned curricula, alternate weeks spent in school and industry after the second year, teacher supervision in industry and easy entrance into permanent employment, these courses make a strong appeal to employer, pupil, educator and taxpayer.

Hadley Farm Burns

Hadley, Feb. 28—The buildings on the Leland Sanders place here were burned with loss estimated at $20,000. The fire originated in one of the barns, destroyed the several farm buildings and ignited the house. Help was summoned from Northampton.

All Chicago Called to Prayers for Election

Chicago, Feb. 28 (AP)—The Christian people of Chicago have been called to assemble March 7 in their respective places of worship "and pray to Almighty God for strength and vision" in the selection of men for public office at the April primary.

The call was issued through a resolution adopted by 500 members of the Union Ministers' Association. The resolution said:

"Conditions have reached a state where the ballot box is wantonly violated, where life and property are not safe, where the homes of citizens are menaced by bombs, where crime, graft and corruption are increasing, andw where there is a partnership between criminals and some officials, as shown by the existence of hundreds of gambling joints and vice dens and thousands of places selling intoxicating liquor, openly tolerated by negligent officials."

The meeting was attended by ministers representing virtually all the Protestant churches of the city.

"Smooth skin essential" say leading Directors

SMOOTH exquisite skin is essential for popularity, leading motion picture directors declare.

Every star in Hollywood knows that only smooth velvety skin can successfully meet the all-revealing glare of the Klieg lights in the close-up. How she guards it? Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap!

It cares for their skin the true French way. For this lovely white fragrant soap is made by the method France developed and uses for her finest toilet soaps.

And the great film studios, following their stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in all their studio dressing rooms. Beauty is important in Hollywood! You, too, will be delighted with the velvety bloom of your skin when Lux Toilet Soap cares for it. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

CO-OPERATIVE EDUCATION RESULTS ARE EXALTED BY TECH MAN

SOUTHBRIDGE'S PART TIME METHODS EXPLAINED

ing as the foundation of American homes and national life.

COUNTRY VS. CITY

After a short, stiff superintendent of Marshall schools, who has joined Prof. Smith, discussing

"Economics as based upon Professor Frank Parsons' book on the subject. Today we found that Prof. with the same as described here all described a similar experience in a 10th Warner class. Prof. Ward showed the contrast in social attendance conditions in the rural and private districts and was greatly commended.

On the topic "Existing Public Education," Cook said: "We have two great opportunities: (1) to put a minimum portion of public education that will be given to every child in the state, no matter to what corresponding allocation to poorer, state support; the principle is that no local school unit shall be required to tax itself beyond a reasonable limit for the purpose of carrying out the minimum set up. The program should stress:

Adequate supply of professionally trained teachers and a legal requirement that trained teachers be employed whenever available as vacancies occur.

Guarantee of a minimum salary preferably on a yearly basis for all teachers meeting state requirements, with salary increments at intervals.

Guaranteed minimum school year of at least nine months for all local school units.

Adequate supply of books and materials.

Adequate and efficient instructional supervisors in every school unit.

Provision for effective administrative and professional leadership on the part of the superintendent, since educational leadership is the first requisite of the progressive school system.

The fifth annual year-book on Curriculum was presented by Dr. Charles C. Peters, superintendent of Philadelphia schools.

The national commission on curriculum members had remained intact over a four-year period and its report today was a final one.

ATTACKS WASTE

Inefficiency in the expenditure of school funds was attacked by Fred M. Hunter, superintendent of schools, Oakland, Calif. He said in part:

"School systems are frequently administered more in the interest of the reputation of superintendents, teachers, business managers and architects, and to the profit of private businesses and contractors than in the interests of children.

"Much money is wasted, school programs handicapped and the support of education is endangered by loose and thoughtless, to personal and selfish, policies of control by boards of education and executives.

He enumerated the chief causes of waste in the administration of public school systems. Continuing, he said:

"A people with an annual income of two billions is willing to spend two billion dollars per year to advertise—yes, and more—if that people is assured that the two billion is effectively invested in cultural and spiritual values in the lives of the 25,000,000 youths, and that such investment is predestined to pay the rich dividends of a happy and prosperous democratic civilization for all posterity."

DORCHESTER SINGERS

During the session the glee club of the Dorchester Girls' high school occupied the platform and rendered several selections.

Education is the biggest business in the country save that of the federal government, the convention was told today by one speaker.

"The business of education exceeds the General Motors Co., which recently surpassed the steel magnate in net profits," E. S. Richardson, Louisiana school superintendent, told delegates.

"It is even greater than Standard Oil and its tremendous ramifications combined.

"It is a business with billions of invested capital, an annual expenditure of millions, earnings that cannot be computed, with more than one hundred millions stockholders, and a great army of workers of which we are a part."

"It is a business that is acquitted by not too thoroughly organized and inefficient in many respects, but it is a business that will never fail.

"Public school education is the greatest single contribution made by the American Republic to civilization."

HITS AT LOWELL

"The figures on the high cost of education and teachers' salaries quoted yesterday by President Lowell of Harvard on the subject of correction today by L. C. Hull, chief of the bureau of child accounting and statistics in the Cincinnati public schools.

Critics of the public schools who cite enormous increases in expenditures in the past decade, and who imply on the part of the schools an accompanying wastefulness and extravagance, do not tell all the facts, he said.

"School expenses, of course, have increased, but in school interest the same ratio as expenses have increased for families, factories, stores, and the various divisions of government.

"While the family has grown smaller in this period, its expenses have increased enormously. Precisely the same thing has happened in the Nation's public schools, with the exception that instead of growing smaller they have increased in enrollment.

"The United States Department of Labor, issued, in November, 1927, a statement showing that since 1913 the hourly wages of 75 trades in 60 large cities advanced until they are now more than two and one-half times per hour the wages of 1913.

"These income rolls almost exactly with the increase in school expenditures. After the correction for the larger enrollment with its change in curriculum is made.

"Critics frequently attack a city school system by comparing its costs to those prevailing in other school systems. In a great many cases, it has been my experience, that such attacks are unfair for the reason that it is hard to find two school systems with the same system of accounting, or sharing the same burdens of expense."

DOWNEY TELLS OF HUB STUDY IN CHARACTER

"The development in the individual point of a good character which shall rightly shape and control his conduct in and out of school, is an educational task of no mean order," said Walter F. Downey, headmaster of Boston English High School, before the National Association of Secondary School Principals at the Statler today.

"No man will, of itself, bring about the desired result of character development. The achievement of our great objective can be secured only through the total, painstaking and intelligent cooperation of every teacher.

"The teacher must make all the life of the school. The teaching of every subject, the dealing with all matters of discipline, the atmosphere and spirit of the school, count for moral education. The teacher must realize that the work of character education is a practical everyday matter demanding constant attention and practical wisdom in its conduct.

"To no degree that the teacher measures up to his own personal responsibility will the success of this character program be assured.

"The High School Head Masters' Association of Boston has given more than four years of intensive study, investigation, and experimentation to the problem of character education. The association has endeavored to prepare a suggestive, workable plan of procedure.

"It includes the factors involved in the proper conduct of this important work of developing right attitudes in the youth of our city, and is an attempt to formulate a plan by which specific worthwhile qualities of character may be developed consistently with the success of this program through definite life stimulations."

Politicians "Good Friends of Schools," Says Educator

In a rondile, politicians are a necessity and most politicians are, or would like to be, friends of education and the schools, it was declared today by Ernest W. Butterfield, New Hampshire State commissioner of education, in a statement before a section of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association.

"Thank God for our politicians," he said. "By any definition, all who seek office and all who by their fellows are elected to legislative, judicial or executive offices are politicians.

"Fortunately for our nation most of ours are patriotic, able and faithful servants of the State. In a republic, politicians are a necessity.

WOULD TEACH RURAL BOYS TO STAY HOME

"Teach the rural student the opportunities in his own district," was the advice of educators meeting at Hotel Hall today in a discussion of rural educational problems of the N. E. A.

Speakers, including Emery N. Ferriss, professor of education at Cornell; Prof. Clyde Hill or Yale, Assist. Prof. Francis T. Spaulding of Harvard; A. B. Meredith, Commissioner of Education of Connecticut; Dr. Mabel Carney of New York Teacher's College, championed differentiation in rural school curricula that would help the country pupil see the possibilities of expansion in his own natural field—the farm districts.

"The need of research to determine the average intelligence of the pupil is paramount so that we may see what they should react to," Prof. Ferriss stated.

Spaulding suggested it was an "economic impossibility" to organize the junior high school in the rural community on account of the wide scope of studies required as against the small staff of teachers allowed.

"We should teach in terms of rural experience and needs," said Dr. Mabel Carney in advocating partial differentiation in rural education.

"Methods of socialization, fine arts and other finer things of life can easily be presented them in different curricula. I strongly advocate at least partial differentiation."

Paul Whiteman Likes the Toasted Flavor of Luckies —His Favorite Brand

"It was but recently, when I started to act as master of ceremonies with my band at the Paramount Theatre, that I realized how vital perfect voice condition was to a performer. I have always been a consistent smoker and fortunately, Lucky Strikes were my favorite brand. I like their toasted flavor and, best of all, I can smoke as often as I like, without fear of irritating my voice, which is becoming a great asset in my work."

Prominent Tobacco Buyer says:

"The Cream of the Tobacco Crop"

goes into Lucky Strikes

"Discriminating smokers know the excellence of Lucky Strike Cigarettes by their distinctive taste, flavor and lack of bad after-effects. We buyers know why Lucky Strikes possess these superlative qualities; because we buy the 'Cream of the Crop' for their manufacture."

BETTY ALDEN LISTS BOSTON SOCIETY WOMEN TENDING SHOP TO AID CHARITY

Palm Beach Society Turns Out En Masse for American Legion Boxing Carnival

WHENEVER ONE DROPS INTO THE PRETTY LITTLE BRITTANY Coffee Shop in the upper end of Newbury st. one finds an interesting duo of hostesses on hand. The shop, brave and bright in its Brittany blue coloring, is very much a going business concern as well as the cherished offshoot of a worthy philanthropy, the Household Nursing Association. Society matrons interested in the cause find it the pleasantest of duties to sit behind the counters on certain days allotted them. Mrs. Harry Hill Richardson is one so inclined, philantropically. She takes the place of Mrs. Charles Scudder, who has departed for Europe.

MONDAYS, FOR THE NEXT month, at the Coffee Shop are allotted to Mesdames Richard Fuller and Theodore Bittenbender; Tuesdays, to Mrs. Lawrence P. Dodge and Mrs. Carl Dreyfus; Wednesdays, to Mrs. John Rogers and Mrs. M. S. Burnholm, the latter of Newburyport; Thursdays, to Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. Harry Hill Richardson; Fridays are the special days of Mrs. Henry Dubois Tudor and Mrs. Louis Kornfeld, and Saturdays are duty days for Mrs. Philip Sylvester and Mrs. Charles P. Woodworth. Every day in the week one may find delicious food wherewith to sustain the inner man, and find at the same time a degree of self righteousness in doing a good deed for a deserving cause.

SOCIETY AT PALM BEACH SPED GAILY THROUGH AN uncharted course, this past week, that "tacked" from musicales, to prize fights; from charity benefits to brilliant private entertainments, as the climax of the winter's social pageantry crowds closer. The stream of events drew such a crowd that practically all the fashionable hostelries were hard put to it to accommodate patrons. And the lesser establishments had to be sought out; all of which brings the sparkle to Mine Host's eye down on the American Riviera.

FOR FUN UNADULTERATED THE PALM WENT TO THE Legion's Boxing Carnival, with the resident smart set and the short-time visitors out en masse. A golden horseshoe for a boxing carnival is an innovation, even in a resort where styles as well as methods of entertainment have their inception. Society bought all the boxes and turned about and gave them back; and then re-bought them so that the fund might swell to enormous proportions. Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, Major and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Leonard Repogle, Mrs. Edward Beale McLean were of the supergenerous ones.

MARJORIE KIMPTON
Schoolgirl never misses a session of the Skating Club.

SOLDIERS' SHOP SUPPORTERS HAVE GATHERED FOR TODAY'S sale at the Hotel Sheraton. Mrs. Timothee Adamowski comes back from a visit at Rosemont, in Pennsylvania, and Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards from Niagara to be on hand. James C. Barry is in charge, and Shop satellites assisting are Miss Edith Ticknor, Mrs. Edward Mauran Beals, Mrs. James Cunningham Gray, Mrs. Olive Pentz and Mrs. Charles R. Butler. Mrs. Curtis Guild, ever willing in the cause of the disabled ex-service men, is to be at the Sheraton for a portion of the day.

WITH HIGH HOPES, DISABLED EX-SERVICE MEN FROM 22 States send in their handiwork to the Shop. And every hope is realized, because sales go with a dash and the handicraft is disposed of with dispatch. For the present series of sales, and specially today's, some beautiful examples of hand-wrought leather, pewter, silver, both table and for personal adornment; jewelry and batik have an aesthetic appeal. Woolen scarves of a daintiness and beauty unbelievable (since they are designed and made by men) are for sale. For the bridal remembrances there are gifts combining both utility and beauty certain to delight the recipient.

HOWEVER BRILLIANT THE SENIOR SUPPER DANCES ARE (and they are the chic affairs of the winter), they lose somewhat by the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, who are now abroad. Mr. Lyman is director-in-chief of the senior dances, and Mrs. Lyman is one of the chief feminine ornaments in the aggregation. They will not be back in town until late in March. Meanwhile they now are in England and have been in both France and Italy doing a round of visits. They sail for home March 15. So next Friday evening's affair goes on without them.

FRIENDS OF MISS FRANCESCA BRAGGIOTTI WILL BE GLAD to know that her California sojourn is over and that for the remainder of the winter she is planning to be with her family in Boston. Over a recent week-end she was with her younger sister, Miss Marta, in Saranac, where the latter finds the sparkling air exactly suited to her continued physical well being. Plans for the Braggiotti Revue of Dance, the annual spring offering, are well under way and interest many smart households, whose youthful offspring of all ages cavort about, to their own and their parents' unconcealed delight.

TUESDAY AND THURSDAY afternoons at the Arena bring out in force every age of Boston Skating Club enthusiasts. Mr. Horace Binney, doing a "mile" in eight turns of the rink, is as ardent at the graceful sport as the veriest infant—and the infants take to the ice almost as soon as they can toddle. Miss Marjorie Kimpton is a schoolgirl Skating Club member who misses no afternoon session of the club. Tea, served by matrons, right on the ice, is always a pleasant feature of the afternoons. Mrs. Nathaniel Niles and Mrs. Edward M. Howland were the tea committee, although during Mrs. Niles' absence in Switzerland substitutes in plenty are available.

The BOOK of BATTLE!
The President's Daughter
by Nan Britton
(90th THOUSAND)

ABOUT this sensational volume a war of human thought rages throughout the United States.

OVER their cards and tea women debate Nan Britton's frank story of her own experience of motherhood outside of marriage;

IN their clubs and offices men bang desks and tables and shout condemnation or approval;

THOUSANDS of men and women in public life read, with varied emotions, The President's Daughter from cover to cover—they can't help it, once they're started;

AND the booksellers of the country are tumbling over themselves to stock and sell this wonderful story of life and love, passion and politics, wrung from the heart of a mother who, through the Elizabeth Ann League, seeks the passage of laws assuring legal and social justice for all little children born out of wedlock.

THIS book of battle, as someone has called it, is without doubt the most widely discussed, absorbing, and upsetting volume of this year of 1928.

439 pages; 48 photographic illustrations.

YOU can get it at all good book stores; or direct from the publishers, prepaid, at $3 a copy.

CONVENTION EVENTS

URGES A 'LINDY PATH' IN RURAL EDUCATION

Following are highlights from addresses made at 44 separate group meetings of the department of superintendence of the National Education Society in Boston today:

"It is high time to blaze a Lindbergh-path in rural education to replace the cart-path laid down a century and a half ago."—Edward J. Tobin, Cook County school superintendent, Chicago.

"For some years we have been working on a study of the effect of schooling on the immense of people of equal ability. Our results lead us to think that schooling at the higher levels does not increase the income of a person."—Prof. Harold F. Clark, Indiana University.

"Cooperative courses send out into industry thoughtful, conscientious workers, who are proving a credit to the schools from which they come and the industry into which they go."—Edward C. Emerson, assistant director of manual arts, Boston.

"The misfit, the inadequate and the misunderstood are not to be coddled and wore-behaired, but to be helped up and set on the footing of self-assurance, pride and competence."—Edwith M. Everett, director of the White-Williams Foundation, Philadelphia.

"Curriculum construction is the problem of the teacher as he faces the pupil who is to learn."—N. L. Threkeld, superintendent of schools, Denver, Col.

HAPPY DAYS IN SCHOOL

"The most fundamental of all objectives for the subnormal child is a happy, social existence now and then."—John A. Young, assistant school superintendent, Bridgeport, Conn.

"Because of the changing conditions of our complex civilization, all of us—lawyers, college professors, school administrators—must be ever on the alert or we shall find our school behind in the procession, with greater poignancy than ever do we realize that time and tide wait for no man."—Ada York, superintendent of schools, San Diego, Calif.

"Schools conducted under the tuition system show a low percentage of failures, both in comparison with other similar schools and in comparison with the failures in the same schools before the adoption of the plan."—Isaac O. Winslow, superintendent of schools, Providence.

"Dame Experience still presides over the most efficient school, and it should be the aim of every superintendent to make his school after the manner."—W. F. Webster, superintendent of schools, Minneapolis.

"Too long has the educator reflected the effective—the emotional side of child life and of the learning process. The live-wire leaders of the future must literally sell his subject to the pupil."—Harold E. Warner, Washington, D. C., High School principal.

VALUE OF PUBLICITY.

"Good school administration demands that every city school system have an absolutely independent board of education, elected by a vote of the people."—N. L. Mills, Business Manager of Houston (Texas) Public Schools.

"Newspaper publicity is a great asset to any school administration and has had a tremendous influence in making Birmingham schools in truth public schools."—C. R. Glenn, Superintendent of Schools, Birmingham, Ala.

"There are at least 57 varieties of educational inequalities."—Norman Frost, professor of rural education.

"A council on secondary education composed of principals and specialists with superintendent or assistant superintendent as coordinator is needed in large cities."—Prof. Bancroft Beatley, Harvard University.

"The public schools still treat children and students too much as if they were all members of a definite class without practical interests or needs."—Prof. Frederick G. Bonser, Teachers College, Columbia University.

WINSHIP SPEAKER AT CALIFORNIA BREAKFAST

California, 125 strong, gathered today at a breakfast in Hotel Brunswick of the California State Association to the National Education Association convention. Putting aside official greetings, the delegates and their guests made it a real California get-together. Several Bostonians, who have lived in California, or taught in California in the past, were among the men and women present.

Speakers included William J. Cooper, California state superintendent of public education; Mark Keppel, county superintendent of Los Angeles County; Dr. Fred M. Hunter, a Californian who is now president of the University of Denver; Joseph M. Gwynn, San Francisco, president of the department of superintendents; Dr. A. E. Winship, Boston, editor of the Journal of Education; Dr. B. M. Wood, dean of the University of California at Los Angeles, and Dr. Ernest C. Moore, professor of education at Harvard University.

G. B. JEFFERS, deputy superintendent at Schenectady.

LONG TEACHING HOURS UNFAIR, SAYS ROEMER

A day of six straight teaching periods is a cruel imposition on teachers, Prof. Joseph Roemer of the University of Florida today told 400 N. E. A. delegates in the ballroom of the Hotel Statler.

Although the addresses and the open discussion of topics from the floor covered a wide range of subjects relating to junior high schools, a feature of the session proved to be the discussion of the fair and just "day load" that should be put on teachers.

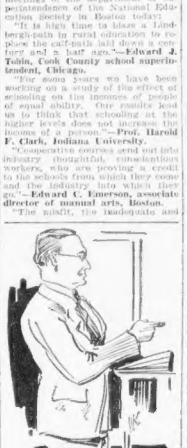
Prof. Roemer said but he understood the six-period teaching day is still in effect in the northeast, although in the southeastern branch of the association it has given way to the five-day period.

While the junior high school section was meeting in the Statler ballroom the senior high school section, numbering approximately 400, met in the Georgian room of the same hotel.

Miss Grace M. Hamilton, principal of the Morey junior high school, Denver, presided at the former, and Charles F. Allen, principal of the West Side junior high school, Little Rock, Ark., at the latter.

Topics discussed at the junior meeting were the rating of teachers by supervisors, the place of the teacher in curricula revision, introduction of extra-curricula activities and the place of research in secondary schools.

Topics at the other meeting were some important problems of small high schools, character education in secondary schools, the battle of equality in secondary education and the visiting teacher in the high school.



DR. R. G. JONES, superintendent at Cleveland.

PRESS SEEN AS BIG FACTOR IN GOOD SCHOOL

The press is the best medium of contact between the schools and the public, W. J. Avery, superintendent of schools of Alexandria, La., stated before Section 17 of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association.

"The public is greatly interested in the school and in the youth of the land generally," he said. "To be effective, school publicity should be continuous and systematic, free from propaganda, politics and selfishness. Emergencies require special treatment in accordance with local conditions."

He added that the newspaper as a medium of school publicity is too often neglected by school authorities, though its use is on the increase.

Similar advice was given by S. Monroe Graves, superintendent of schools of Wellesley Hills.

"Good schools," Dr. Graves said, "cost much money, but the people are willing to support them if satisfied as to their policies and the care exercised in the use of school funds. In a community which is well informed, good schools will be demanded by the people, even if the costs are rather high."

Dr. Graves made ten suggestions for keeping the public in touch with the schools, one of them being to give regular school news to the local papers, to the neighborhood weekly bulletin and to an occasional column in a school paper.

Willard H. Bacon, superintendent of schools at Westerly, R. I., said the best means of keeping taxpayers informed about their schools is the public press, especially small local papers.

"The typical report card," he said, "is deplorably lacking in real information. . . . It abounds in lists and subjects, laboriously prepared by conscientious teachers, but for real information parents must go to the school, to the principal, to the teacher, or to the child."

"A sane continuous publicity program covering all phases of school activity will render unnecessary occasional frantic appeals for public support," said Superintendent John Lund of the Norwalk, Ct., schools. "There is no problem of the school problem, administrative, financial or educational, which cannot be made the subject of effective continuous publicity."

Dr. Rollo G. Reynolds, Teachers College, Columbia University, said if America's teachers have on public and professional obligation above all others, it is to see to it that the American public, the fathers and mothers of the 24,000,000 boys and girls, understand what American public education is all about.

B. HAROLD HAMILTON, assistant director of music in Boston schools.

MRS. JOHN FINLAY TELLS OF HOME TRAINING COURSE

Speaking before the evening practical arts section of the National Education Association, in the library of the High School of Practical Arts, Mrs. John Finlay, a graduate of that school, outlined the benefits to be derived by any receptive girl from the practical and other courses of such a school.

Mrs. Finlay cited her ability to make, repair and remodel her own and her daughter's clothing as a result of her high school instruction in dressmaking.

The courses in home economics were cited and reference was made by Mrs. Finlay to her experiences with personal and household budgets before and after marriage.

COMMISSION MAY SUSPEND AL MELLO

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN — TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1928

Catcher Bill Cronin Looks Good to Slattery

One of Those Things?

The Hudkins-Mello bout at the Arena has handed the boxing game in Boston one of the most severe setbacks in its history.

Daniel Lane, a member of the Massachusetts State Boxing Commission, has gone on record as being of the opinion that the contest was one of THOSE THINGS. His opinion is shared by thousands of fans who saw Mello foul Hudkins in the fourth round.

For more than a week there have been wild rumors to the effect that the bout was going to end in a foul or in some other way that was going to enable Hudkins to retain the precious ring prestige which he gained by his recent victory over Sammy Baker in New York.

As a result of these rumors there was virtually no betting on the results of the contest. Even the Lowell delegation refused to wager its money on a bout which it feared was "in the bag for the wildcat."

Referee Johnny Brassil warned the boxers before the contest started that in the event of a foul the guilty boxer would be disqualified. Instead, he should have told Hudkins and Mello that there was anything of a questionable nature about the bout the match would be declared "NO CONTEST." In such event all the boxers would not have received any compensation. This is the only kind of punishment which causes boxers to give their best efforts.

The boxing game has experienced an era of golden prosperity since it was legalized in Massachusetts. Affairs such as that at the Arena will put the game back in its former place in the gutter. It is another case of killing the Goose that laid the Golden Egg. — JACK CONWAY

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

"I WAS just talking with Billy Duffy, chief second for Jack Dempsey in his bouts with Gene Tunney and Jack Sharkey," remarked Mr. Boston as he registered today. "Duffy probably knows as much about the heavyweight situation as any man in the country.

"I think any young heavyweight who loses two out of eight bouts is through and should never be matched for ten rounds. It hasn't been for the long count.

"I was a special [illegible] stop watch anyone, that Tunney was down for 14 seconds in the seventh round.

"I am going to tell you how the story started to the effect that the champ was down for only 14 seconds. I found out without consulting any copy that Referee Dave Barry was giving Tunney a long count. As Gene started to get up I glanced at Sol Metzger on the stage from New York, but the count was 14 seconds and not five. The referee counted five and I [illegible] with my own timepiece and he told me Gene was on the canvas for 14 seconds.

"Regardless how Barry used his head, it was a short count of nine. He should have counted to ten and Tunney would have been out to his feet.

"TUNNEY is a poor champion. He was better at Philadelphia than he was at Chicago. I never rated him [illegible].

"It slowed Sharkey down to a walk for his bout with Heeney. As a matter of fact, Jack was entitled to the decision. Sharkey was way off form against Heeney. He had been out of the ring for six months and no young heavyweight can afford to [illegible] time.

"I understand Sharkey is [illegible] Well, he has a good chance to [illegible] Jack Sharkey will have to go some to defeat Tunney. Jack [illegible] Sharkey can afford to [illegible] a bit of freshness [illegible] opponents to the ground.

"Sharkey has [illegible] and when [illegible] with Heeney I would pick a dangerous [illegible] Tunney. If [illegible] under his best [illegible] Jack is the next champion.

"CHAMPIONS should fight more often than they do. They sit back and wait for the big purse [illegible] fighting ability.

"I look for Dempsey to [illegible] contrary. He won't be ready by [illegible] somebody else first crack at the [illegible]

"You may expect to see Tunney [illegible] a few months during the [illegible] for the championship.

"I'm going to stop talking about Jack [illegible] for to keep an eye on Arthur Lasky [illegible] heavyweight. Since I have taken over my management I have Leo Lomski [illegible] and he has [illegible] Lomski has a chance [illegible] He will [illegible] Watch Lomski [illegible] you will then see big things."

OLD-FASHIONED SPONGE WITH BUTTER CREAM FILLING

DRAKE'S old-fashioned Sponge Cake, without trimmings! There's a treat for you. Drake's newest cake.

The cake itself is made according to Drake's regular recipe for homemade sponge cake, plenty of pure rich milk, strictly fresh eggs - just what you would use if you were making sponge cake in your own kitchen.

But this new Sponge Cake of Drake's is made in three layers, three fluffy oblong layers, each thickly spread with smooth butter cream icing. There's Drake's Devil's Food sponge with thick white fluffy icing - Drake's Ribbon Sponge with vanilla filling and there's golden sponge with pineapple filling - toasted coconut filling—oh, a variety of them!

You can see the filling before you buy the cake, because Drake's new Iced Sponge is wrapped in a special transparent waxed paper.

See one . . . buy one, at your grocer's today.

FRESH!

The Record tells you that Drake's Cakes are made with strictly fresh eggs and pure rich milk. Taste any other cake AND NOTE THE DIFFERENCE.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

"EARNING capacity" comes first —honesty last, in the "Personal" column which makes the ideal husband, according to a group of modern young women.

Fudge and rubbish! You can be just as miserable with a million dollars to squabble over as you can with thirty dollars a week to fight about.

But you can't be happy for a single moment with a man who is not kind and honorable and on the level with you.

Money and good looks may make an attractive lover; but they have very little part in the make up of an ideal husband. Too much money and too much beauty are far more likely to lead to another woman than to happiness. Three months after the wedding you scarcely see the dimple in a man's chin, and have forgotten whether his nose is classic or Gothic, anyway.

* * *

You'll never find ten points of perfection in ANY normal man; so put away your lanterns and your microscopes. There is just ONE point, which outweighs all the other nine, and that is COMPANIONABILITY!

Is he the man who gives you the ZEST for life?

Is he the man who stimulates and inspires you? who makes you see visions and dreams and build beautiful plans for the future?

Is he the man with whom you want to SHARE things—your joys, your secrets, your sunsets, your lobster, your truffles, your job or your game?

Is he the man whose coming paints in the scenery for you and makes the world go round a little faster?

Is he the man, without whom, home would seem empty, success dull and flat, work just a burden, and play just a waste of energy?

Is he the man to whom you have an impulse to TELL things? The man to whom you enjoy talking about yourself, who helps you to idealize yourself, who cheers you up? For the biggest shock in life is to find a cheerleader and get an attic lodger.

* * *

Is he the Big Thrill in your life, the carburetor that ignites your ambition, fires your hopes, and gives life a real meaning for you?

For no matter how steady a man's character, how big his earning capacity, nor how great his public fame, unless he is companionable, unless he is the one who gives you the "zest for life," he is not the man for YOU.

We can get nearly anything else in this world, without bothering to marry for it—money, fame, amusement, and even kisses—everything except COMRADESHIP! For this we must have love.

Life, without it, is like playing to an empty house.

Comradeship is nine points of the Test-Point Husband!

Congressman Frisby's attorney, who is a visitor in our city today.

ON behalf of numerous patriotic organizations, the serial publication of "The Congressman's Son" will be discontinued.

Although loath to take this step—it seems, information to the contrary notwithstanding, that the principles of Americanism for which, no doubt, there are, regardless of opinions otherwise stated, certain exigencies, if not paramount, at least a solution should be forthcoming without equivocation, whereas on the other hand a misapprehension may arise. If not there it is not what it is in case it was.

At the time the manuscript was left under our door, no mention was made of any traveling salesman employed by the Gulf States and Un-Alaska Door to Door Brush Company. That he could throw light on the entire deplorable affair never entered the heads of any of our departments.

However, if Congressman Frisby has been wronged he can seek damages in a court of law.

Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is actually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick to its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume of acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the easy ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

How San Antonio Won Title "West Point of the Air"

By B. C. FORBES

San Antonio, Feb. 28.

"WELCOME to the West Point of the Air." I was puzzled. Then Mayor C. M. Chambers explained that President Coolidge had signed a bill authorizing the establishment here of the main training school for army fliers, the project which would involve the expenditure at present $750,000, soon $1,000,000, within the next few years and eventually, it is estimated, $2,000,000 or more.

Rare, indeed, is the city that does not, at some time or other, aspire to be selected as the location of the Air Corps' training quarters. Competition, therefore, was keen. The government's airexpert experts looked favorably upon San Antonio for several reasons. It could be readily grasped. But it appears that one plank in the administration's economy program—the refusal to purchase of any more land for federal purposes, except in extreme emergency—kept many of other wise worthy cities out of the running.

The largest city in Texas having made up its mind to get the coveted institution, the mayor and other civic authorities held their heads together and authorized the borrowing of $300,000, arranged for the purchase of the desired site and then presented it as a gift to the government.

This enterprising stroke won for San Antonio the second and proudest title, "The West Point of the Air."

When you want a thing, go after it.

San Antonio is already the home of the largest military post in the country, the people quickly let you know. Not only do they there have always existed between the military and the citizens the most cordial fraternity and cordial relations. Uniforms are seen at nearly all local social and other functions. Everybody there said tha tat every U. S. Army post you will find that more of the wives are from San Antonio than from any other city.

Flying is destined to become an overwhelmingly important arm of our national forces that the finding near home of the permanent site of training quarters is found to contribute tremendously to the growth and interest of the city.

Is it not natural, therefore, that San Antonians should be carrying their heads aproud and that in consequence of the new honor that has come to them?

The fact is that San Antonians have a good deal more reason at present to be proud of their city than most cities have. Conditions here are distinctly more prosperous than elsewhere. Growth is impressive under way in a variety of directions. There is little or no unemployment, complaining common in other cities. Unemployment is not in evidence, and assurance is given that it is gratifyingly light.

A new factor has taken possession of the people.

When I was here in 1926 the whole place struck me as sleepy, stagnant, uninteresting. The rich man at the top was content to satisfy himself and his fortune—and caution to the wellbeing or progress of the younger generation, generally. Business, naturally, was backward. There was much grumbling along the line. Instead of issuing mouthfuls boquets to them, I told a large gathering of business men that then had the privilege of addressing, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, how fine and live they impressed me. I paid them the compliment of assuming that they wanted me to be candid. Having been invited to offer suggestions, I did so—perhaps, with more than my usual wisdom. I recall an editor once remarking that he had asked such a man to be expert to write an article on a certain subject, because, he added, "he will not be hampered by possessing any knowledge of the facts."

An invitation having been received to talk to a similar gathering on this return visit, I gladly accepted, after having had some opportunity to study the changes which had been made in the city and its outlook, and after having studied statistics bearing and covering the intervening period.

What has been achieved is really notable.

INT. PAPER STARTS NEW ARKANSAS PLANT

The first paper machine at the new Camden, Arkansas, mill of the International Paper Co. has been started, less than 11 months since the beginning of construction on the mill. The second machine will be placed in operation within the next few weeks.

Located in the southern part of the state, Camden mill is the first paper mill in the State of Arkansas. It will have a capacity of 160 tons of kraft paper a day and is the third southern kraft paper mill of the company, the other two being at Bastrop, Louisiana, Camden is at the head of navigation of the Ouachita river, tributary of the Mississippi river, and is located on three railroads and on a convergence of highways.

Upon completion of the Camden mill the company's three southern mills will have a capacity of approximately 430 tons of kraft paper a day.

HEALTH WORK IN INDUSTRIES TO BROADEN

By FRANK H. MELSON,
Financial Editor.

So-called "safety first" moves in American industry have resulted in a remarkable lowering of the per cent of accidents. The next big step will be a broadening of the scope of safeguard for health of employees, according to well-informed bankers.

CHARLES E. MITCHELL.

The system used in the U. S. Army and Navy could be studied profitably. For instance we have learned that many men who served in the military service are trained in order to fit themselves for positions with from his purchase money up to $1,000 a year.

For a long time past the outstanding leaders in the world of business and finance have appreciated the necessity of safeguarding the health of the employees of corporations, and not only various public bodies but also various public bodies have shown much interest in the subject, and the work in the public schools, and the various hospitals have made rapid progress in recent years, but the interest of New England toward adding to the safety, safety of health conditions, for the benefit of corporations and individuals, however, does not probably looking to most inviting fields.

Leading doctors advocate other exercise to supplement automobile riding. Some have instituted golf, tennis, swimming, and other outdoor sports. Charles E. Mitchell, head of the $1 billion dollar National City Bank of New York, advocates golf over ten thousand holes between now and the end of the year. Mr. Mitchell, on Seattle on auto tour in Pacific coast, declared on January 26, 1926, that he was inspired by the activities of his whole staff. The West needs to be sold to its opportunities, he declared.

Gerard Swope, president of General Electric Company, is shown in the accompanying picture. Mr. Swope is a leader in the movement to safeguard the health of employees, and according to well-informed bankers he is doing a splendid work.

Gerard Swope.

Trade straws show which way the industrial winds blow. F. M. Hoit & Co. of Boston, specialists in electric sports business, report that they have been operating at capacity since the middle of January, and that they have been compelled to refuse orders. Mr. Hoit, Mr. Gerstenberg says, "We are having a wonderful season. It is mainly due to the optimistic attitude in the automobile trade, and we are running 24 hours a day."

Amid much talk about unemployment in the textile industry, there was little or no comment on unemployment in the shoe trade, which is probably considerably worse than at present. It is to be remembered that there was no unemployment to speak of in the shoe trade, and no general and convincing figures on employment are to be had.

LLOYD TO MAKE NEWSPAPER MOVIE

By LUCILLA PARSONS

Los Angeles, Feb. 28—Every time I see Harold Lloyd he asks questions about newspaper reporting. Harold isn't thinking of leaving the screen to become a scribe—but he is thinking of making a newspaper story. The only thing that stands in the way is a good enough comedy to carry his idea. In the absence of that scenario idea he will make "The Mythical Kingdom" before he starts plans for "The Cub Reporter."

Speaking of Harold and his next picture reminds me that Lloyd doesn't finish "Speedy" for ten days, and, since he never averages more than one picture every eighteen months, it will be late 1928 or 1929 before he begins work on another comedy.

If I had mentioned six years ago that a motion picture was held up because of necessary research work, the laughs would have circled the world. Yet there isn't anything unusual today in announcing that "The Old Empire" has been postponed until some necessary research work can be completed. But Al Rogell, who has borrowed Ben Hur First National, cannot afford to wait, so he is returning to First National.

Neither Colleen Moore's bobbed hair bob, which she placed on the rail and on which she rested both hands when testifying. The court's ques tioning brought out the statement that the bob was a fibbie.

Mrs. Twigg testified that she made clothes for herself out of her husband's old silk shirts. She added that she had made a study of cauterization of accidents and sickness.

Replying to Judge McCoole's suggestion that she might be injured in an accident, Mrs. Twigg said, "No, I have ridden a bicycle for 20 years, the same bicycle, and I always give the automobiles the wide berth. I would not be injured."

In response to the court's suggestion that he send a physician to see her in the company of her own physician, Mrs. Twigg replied she would be glad to see him and would entertain him hospitably.

Mrs. Florence E. S. Richards of Bangor, Me., a sister of Mrs. Twigg, testified her sister's husband had placed enough confidence in his wife to permit her to dispose of the estate in any way she saw fit. She said if she approved of Mrs. Twigg's plan for disposition of the property, the court should.

"I do and I don't." On general principles I would sell the lot and prove. Frank S. Stedman of Medford said he was not in sympathy with Mrs. Twigg's plans. Judge McCoole took the petition under advisement.

GOODWIN BILLS ON TONIGHT

On request of Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin today, the hearing on his bills for high salaries for state employes was postponed until this evening by the legislative service committee.

"There are many state employes who wish to be heard on this bill but cannot appear during the day time because of their employment," said Representative Daniel J. Coakley of Chelsea in asking for the postponement. "I have been requested by Mr. Goodwin, who is president of the Commonwealth Service Association," he said, "for a postponement until this evening."

The somewhat unusual time for the hearing was set at 7:30 p. m. in the Augustus P. Gardner Auditorium in the State House.

Despite the Governor's disapproval of Registrar Goodwin's activities, it is understood he will have considerable to say at the hearing.

Gave Girl Kiss for Nothing, and Finds It Worth $2500

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Twenty-five hundred dollars for a kiss!

That was the price fixed by a circuit court jury here when it returned a verdict for damages against Vasilos I. Chebithes, Washington attorney.

The plaintiff was Mrs. Madeline McNamee Price, wife of a Jacksonville, Fla., real estate broker, and formerly Chebithes' secretary. She charged he forcibly kissed her at a Chicago hotel in 1925.

Chebithes has sued her for $50,000 for alleged libel in connection with letters about the kissing episode she is said to have written.

Recalled to the stand twice to answer further questions, Mrs. Twigg each time corroborated Lloyd and Dorothy Sebastian be kept idle. So they are being cast in "The Dancing Girl." There is a third girl to be named later, and Harry Beaumont will direct.

I don't know whether we can say that Vitaphone will mean the death of vaudeville, but I believe one of these days it will be a formidable rival for the two-a-day.

If Warners are wise they will gather as many well-known stage stars as they can under their sketches. They have made a good beginning in signing Lou Carillo to star in a sketch called "The New American," to be directed by Archie Mayo. Lou Carillo first made a name for himself when he played the man dressmaker in "Lombardi, Ltd." His performance will be remembered by everyone who saw him.

Monte Blue writes to friends in Hollywood from Papeete, in the South Seas, that that island is a great hit with the natives. Two ballets have already been named for him, but sans skirts.

"They don't spell my name the way I do. They are calling the kids 'Monti Blue.'"

Monte, who joined a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expedition to make "Under Southern Seas," directed by Frederick O'Brien story, admits his native Hollywood will look pretty good to him.

There is a rumor that Adolphe Menjou will listen to France's beguiling voice. His contract with Paramount expires this month and there is a possibility he will do his picture-making elsewhere. He sails in May on a Norwegian liner, and a little bird tells me a part of his vacation on the other side will be spent making a big special picture.

CARNEGIE BENEFICIARY FIGHTS TAX ON INCOME

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Income tax liability of a beneficiary of bequests under the will of Andrew Carnegie was before the Supreme Court today in a case brought by the executrix of the estate of John W. Beatty of Pittsburgh. Among bequests as beneficiaries were Child Justice Taft, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, the former Mrs. Grover Cleveland, David Lloyd George and several members of British Parliament.

In upholding an income tax on $5000 Beatty receives annually under the will, it was contended by Beatty's estate that the bequest and therefore not taxable. The Circuit Court of Appeals has held the tax was proper.

THOMPSON OPENS ACTIVE "DRAFT COOLIDGE" DRIVE

Chicago, Feb. 28 (AP)—Mayor Thompson, back from Washington conferences, today had launched an active campaign for the nomination and election of President Coolidge. "The people want him and the country needs him," the mayor said. "When the people want anything they send the message to the head of government. A short review of President Coolidge's administration proves he made the country the most prosperous in the world."

Despite reiteration from Washington that the President does not choose to become a candidate, Mayor Thompson at once began to replace the Chicago and Illinois Republican organizations back of a "draft Coolidge" movement.

OPPOSES FULLER'S PLAN FOR BACK BAY MEMORIAL

Governor Fuller's $500,000 from him memorial plan was opposed unsupported at a hearing today before the legislative committee on public affairs. As the governor proposed it, $200,000 was to be appropriated by the state, $150,000 by Boston and the rest by private subscription. Benjamin A. Ilsley, representing the Ex-A. E. F. Commission, asserted no veteran of the Civil, Spanish or World wars wanted a memorial in Copley Sq. and he doubted if any would contribute a dollar to it.

TO GIVE LENTEN ORGAN RECITAL TOMORROW

Haverhill, Feb. 28—Clifford Lunt, organist of North Congregational Church, Malin st., will give the second of a series of Lenten organ recitals in the church tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. He will be assisted by John Howarth, noted violinist and instructor of music at Phillips Exeter Academy. It is believed that every woman and every child in the parish old enough to appreciate the music will be present, as will be many of the men who attend the church.

HIS GOOD TURN ENDS DESIRE TO ROB

stant circuits under the starting motor.

Across the street another man halts and is seen by the first, who calls him over.

"Do you want to be a Good Samaritan?"

"Why—yes. What's the trouble?

"Sit in here and step on that button. With that down, she'll start if she's shorted."

The man turned, caught and roared—then was purring as a motor should. And the modern Jekyll offered to take the shivering stranger to his destination for his kindness. The stranger was going to be in town.

They spoke of the cold. His stranger shivered, but the driver, his anger chased with the turn of the motor, was warm again beyond the reach of the biting wind. He asked for a definite destination.

"Well, I'm heading—" "Well—I'll tell you," he said. "I don't know where I'm going. I started out tonight to hold somebody up."

"Hold somebody up?"

"Yes. Have to be with the police?" he questioned. Assured that the driver was not, the stranger went on. "I've been out of work for weeks. I couldn't get anything each time ordered a line. I tried everything else. Not a job anywhere. Today I got my last dollar. I parked there watching the kids playing in the floor. Then I decided that the only way to get back on my feet was to hold somebody up. I'm a terrible feeling."

"It wouldn't do any good anyway," the driver said. "If you read about it you'd be for a limit."

"You don't want to get caught with that," the driver said. "It looks like a good grab, too. Let me see it."

The driver "broke" the revolver. It was empty. "Could be your home," he said.

"I feel it," said the stranger.

At a subway entrance the driver pulled a dollar out of his pocket. "Here, you may need some money, but that may help some. Buck up for a day or so and see what happens."

The stranger gripped his hand and turned down into the maw of the tube.

The motorist went home to the life he had thought were lovely.

'BABY-FACED' THUG IN PLEA

Plea for the life of Herbert J. Gleason, the police-styled "baby-faced bandit," will be made to Governor Fuller next Monday, it was announced today by State House executive chambers today.

Gleason, who has not yet reached his majority, is sentenced to die in the electric chair at State Prison during the week of March 12.

He was convicted on a charge of killing James A. Mongiat, a Medford storekeeper, during a holdup.

Commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment will be sought.

BORAH IS AGAINST CHURCH DICTATORSHIP ON DRY LAW

Washington, Feb. 28 (AP)—Senator Borah reversed his usual procedure today by the business of answering questionnaires today by getting on the receiving end and replying "no" to questions as to whether he favored "supergovernment," or religious dictatorship.

Answering a letter from Dr. Charles A. L. Reed, of Cincinnati Herald, referred to him as one of the candidates for President, and returned a brief "no" to queries asking him if he advocated such things.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL TO SPEAK ON "NEIGHBORS"

Alice Stone Blackwell will speak on "Neighbors of Other Lands" at Every Thursday Luncheon conference of the League of Neighbors and Fellowship of Faiths of the Newton Country Club, Thursday, from 1 to 2 p. m., at 3 Arnold rd.

Miss Blackwell will describe especially, experiences of her mother, Lucy Stone Blackwell, pioneer suffrage leader, and of her aunt, Antoinette Blackwell an early leader in church work and progressive efforts for the advancement of women.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our Industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

Mrs. Lindbergh

Paying Respect to Her, the N. E. A. Honors the Mothers and Sons of America

The gold emblem of and a life membership in the National Education Association are conferred upon Evangeline Lindbergh for "characteristics of modesty and idealism and outstanding work in the teaching profession."

Mrs. Lindbergh's modesty, which no doubt explains the modesty of her famous son, has been apparent to America ever since the 21st day of May, last. Without knowing much about Cass Technical High, in the city of Detroit, we feel certain that the work of at least one of its teachers of chemistry is and for a long time has been "outstanding."

In a day when egotists, self-advertisers, the possessors of leather lungs, tooters of their own horns, push and elbow and crowd their way to so many of the more conspicuous places in politics, journalism, law, the theatre—sometimes in the church, even—the Lindberghs are as encouraging as a rainbow, as exhilarating as a breeze off the sea, as refreshing as the garden on a June morning.

The members of the teaching profession have every right to be gratified that one of their fellow-members is the mother of a son who has been honored by the nations. Their gold emblem is wisely bestowed.

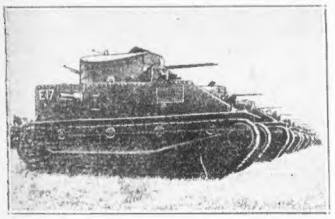
There is not a mother in the land who does not hope that her boy will be "like Lindbergh," nor a boy who does not feel that the highest tribute he can pay to "Ma" is to say that she is "like Mrs. Lindbergh."

This mother and son have no need for precious stones. Each of them possesses, in the other, a jewel beyond compare.

And they both belong to us!

The Heavy Steel Line

It Could Walk Over Villages, Cavalry Regiments, Armies



A ROW OF "TANKS" IN BRITAIN'S "MECHANIZED FORCE"

During the war, you read about "tanks"—caterpillar tractors first introduced in the United States, for agriculture, then covered with armor and used for killing men.

The British were first to use the tanks. Germans were amazed and horrified when they saw the steel monsters, crawling along on their "caterpillar tread," cutting through barbed wire entanglements as if they were not there, crossing ditches, climbing over trenches.

Each tank with men hidden inside of its steel protecting armor carried quick-firing machine guns. Men from within hurled exploding hand grenades ahead of them.

The next war will see, as this picture proves, whole regiments of tanks, taking the place of the old-fashioned cavalry regiments.

One of these tanks could plough its way through ten thousand cavalrymen and their horses, as easily as a knife cutting through cheese.

Tanks are now made five times as big as they were in the war, to carry heavy guns and drag other heavy guns behind them.

Stone walls, to say nothing of barbed wire entanglements, cannot stop them.

Old-fashioned armies with soldiers mounted on horses would have no chance against these caterpillar monsters of steel with armor plate. One machine like this might have changed the result of the Battle of Waterloo and sent Napoleon to rule in England instead of sending him to the dreary little island of St. Helena.

However, men invent one thing for attack and another for defense.

The giant tank, against which men on foot and horseback are helpless, will be in its turn helpless against ATTACK FROM THE AIR.

Half a dozen air men, flying in light machines that go two hundred miles an hour and faster, could, with their bombs, soon put out of action a whole army of these caterpillars.

The flier with his bombs appears to be the last word. The only thing that will destroy him, and perhaps that will come, would be wireless attack, annihilating objects at a distance by sending electricity through the air without wires.

'SHOUTED LOUD THE HINDMOST THRONG'

By DR. FRANK CRANE

BOOKS that live always have one element in common. It is an understanding of human nature.

Read the Iliad or the Divine Comedy or Don Quixote or Hamlet or the works of the old Biblical writers and you see them sketch in the lines of human nature in their pictures of men and of times.

Listen to old Homer thus describe the meeting of Ajax and Hector and their followers on the plains of Troy:

"He, with proud step, protected by his shield,
On every side the hostile ranks surveyed,
If signs of yielding he might trace; but they
Undaken stood; and with like haughty mien,
Ajax at Hector thus defiance hurled. . . .
He said, and led them on; with eager cheers
They followed; shouted loud the hindmost throng."

The hindmost cheer loud; they are farthest from the danger.

Distance lends not only enchantment but belligerence as well in the realms of human nature.

Take preachers, for instance. (You might as justly take any other class of people.) In small villages where "high society" is not, it is condemned vigorously; and in big cities, where it is, ministers preach against the "narrow-mindedness" characteristic of somewhere else. In Ohio they seek the Mormons and in Utah they seek something equally remote.

The story of Joan of Arc is the story of followers that believed in her mission when she was carrying everything before her and who began to grumble and doubt as soon as she met a reverse in fortune.

They shouted loudest when they were farthest from defeat.

Every leader knows the bitterness of this element in human nature. Christ met it time and again and it was one of the things that depressed him most.

The men who have been valuable have been the ones who could keep on shouting just as loud when they came into the zone of action.

It is a good plan for each of us to spend a little time occasionally checking up on the "causes" we fight for.

DEAR Lois—

I have just read your unhappy letter and I feel a deep and sympathetic understanding, little girl. I know how hard it is for a young wife to adjust herself to married life, and how often she feels sorry for herself and resentful toward her husband. And yet—there's another side to the story, Lois.

You say that Fred is really a fine fellow and that you "suppose you love him as much as you did when you were married but—" He's so selfish! He likes to stay downtown for dinner with his old friends and he forgets to phone you 'o' if he ever seems to occur to him that you'd like to go out in the evenings, too,'n' he treats you like "an old shoe" 'n' sometimes you wonder if he really cares any more for you and the baby.

A long, hurry list of troubles, Lois dear, but not a new one. Almost every young wife faces the same troubles and feels just as badly about it as you do.

Are you right? Of course, you are. He's a mean, selfish, little girl, to treat
